Greetings from the ICC Beehive Chapter Board of Directors! The Thanksgiving Holiday is just around the corner, and we have many things to be thankful for...

A growing trend continues to gain support each year during the month of November. Men and women alike are participating and celebrating an event that appears to some as a bit disruptive to maintaining a atmosphere; however, there is a deeper and more personal reason for their actions. Although I have heard of people observing this trend in years past, I never took the time to understand the cause, until now.

It is the celebration of "No Shave November. This yearly program is designed to create awareness and generate financial support for cancer prevention, research and education. Those who participate are admonished to forgo shaving and grooming to raise cancer awareness by getting hairy! One may participate by growing a beard, cultivating a mustache, letting those legs go natural and skipping that waxing appointment. You are asked...

...to put down your razor for 30 days and donate your monthly hair maintenance expenses to the cause. Participation of any type is perfectly acceptable and encouraged.

We probably all know of someone whose life has been affected by cancer. Let's do what we can to help our family members and friends to survive the ordeal. Grow awareness by embracing your hair, which many cancer patients lose. Donate the money typically spent on grooming to educate, prevent and save the lives of those fighting the battle!

Sincerely,

CONFORMITY CORNER (By: Randy Spadafora)Residential Decks

How many of you are aware of the new deck provisions in the 2015 IRC? Are you enforcing these provisions and if so have you had any issues?

Here is some verbiage from a recent article in "FineHomebuilding" Magazine on the subject:

"The 2015 International Residential Code (IRC) came out last June and the section specifically covering decks (R507) is now up to 6 1/2 pages – the 2012 IRC only has 2 1/2 pages. Most of the new subsections will make prescriptive deck construction a lot simpler."

"Here's a list of the 2015 deck code additions:

- A new option for lateral load connections that can be installed entirely from the exterior (see image below).
- A joist span table for sizing joists and section figures, and language permitting overhangs up to 1/4 of the joist span.
- A deck beam span table for sizing beams based on the joist span and size of the beam.
- Post to footing subsection with figures and a post size table."

NOVEMBER TRAINING

2015 IECC

A big thanks goes to Gary Hoglund for organizing our November Monthly Training that will be held on Wednesday, November 16th. We have a great instructor and topic lined up! Please be aware that while the meeting will still be held at Orem City it will not be in the Public Safety Training Room in the 95 East Center Street building.

Our instructor will be David Wilson, the Executive Director of the Utah Energy Conservation Coalition. He will be providing a short presentation on the 2015 IECC and will also have a representative from Panasonic come and talk to us about the ventilation requirements for new homes under the 2015 IECC.

DECEMBER ABM @ CABELA'S

Annual ABM

Our annual ABM will be held at Cabela's again this year. Please mark your calendars for December 14th and RSVP if you plan on attending. As is usual, each Chapter member that attends will receive a $20.00 Cabela's gift card.

This is your opportunity to vote for those that will be serving on the Chapter Board for the coming year and help us in planning the annual training for the Chapter.

If you plan on attending please RSVP to Chris Kimball at chrisk@wc-3.com so that we can get appropriate numbers for the lunch and the gift cards. Please make sure that you discuss this will all Chapter members in your office and perhaps send on RSVP email for your entire group that plans on attending.

Sincerely,

Chris Kimball

Chapter President
